

2023 Annual Winter Conference

March 16 – 17, 2023

*Hosted at the Sheraton Portsmouth Harborside
250 Market Street, Portsmouth NH 03801*

Each year, during the month of March, the NHASEA brings together hundreds of education professionals from across the state to learn, share, grow and network.

This year, we take a deep dive into specially designed instruction, universal design for learning and proactive planning for student variability. Join us at the Sheraton Harborside in downtown Portsmouth for two days filled with authentic professional learning, connecting with the experts, networking with colleagues and opportunities to meet a variety of vendors who can provide support and valuable resources.

Specially Designed Instruction: Increasing Success for Students with Disabilities

Inclusion can work! However, for inclusion to be successful, school leaders and teachers must bring specially designed instruction (SDI) into the classroom. In this session you will gain a deeper understanding of what SDI is and is not, practical ideas for creating and implementing SDI, as well as tools for coaching and supporting teams. Anne will share real SDI examples, show co-planning video clips and provide participants with hands-on learning experiences.

Equity By Design:

Including All Learners through Proactive Design

Every student deserves the opportunity to be successful regardless of their zip code, the color of their skin, the language they speak, their sexual and/or gender identity, their religion, and whether or not they have a disability. If we truly want to be inclusive in our learning environments, we must proactively plan for student variability. This starts with examining our implicit biases, power and privilege and universally designing classrooms and schools so all students have equal opportunities to learn, share their voice, and work toward meaningful, authentic, and relevant goals. Join us for this session on how we can implement UDL to help us build more equitable learning environments.
