

NHASEA 2026 Annual Law Conference

April 10, 2026
9:00am - 3:00pm

Grappone Conference
Center
Concord, NH

The Year In Review

The law firm of Wadleigh, Starr and Peters will continue their practice of examining recent case law that informs the provision and oversight of programs and services for children and youth with disabilities. Conference attendees will be actively engaged in the review and discussion of case studies developed from recent court decisions with the goal of learning from successes and the mistakes of others and to further refine best practices in your own educational community. Topics will include, but not limited to, eligibility, IEP's, placement, and discipline.

Court-Involved Children and Youth and Manifestation

The law firm of Drummond and Woodsum will take time to review and discuss the legal aspects of manifestation for court involved children and youth with IEPs. Join us as we discuss when is manifestation required, who is involved, what documentation is needed and other related legal expectations. .

Open Enrollment: What Does This Mean for LEAs and Provision of Special Education Services?

Open Enrollment in NH's Public Schools is certainly a hot topic and becomes more complicated when it comes to the implications for special education programming. Join the law firm of Drummond Woodsum as they provide a legal overview of open enrollment, current and pending legislation and expectations when it comes to provision of a Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE).

The topics we plan to discuss are as follows:

- LEA obligations
- Coordination between sending/receiving Districts
- Legal guidance for maintaining compliance
- Service delivery
